

PEOPLE'S PARTY MEET.

They Hold a Senatorial and County Convention and Place a Ticket in the Field.

Nine followers of the People's party movement occupied seats at the court house in this city yesterday afternoon. S. A. Sherman called the Senatorial convention to order, and T. P. Lappen was chosen secretary. A. J. Larabee then placed the name of Geo. Radcliffe, of Ogdensburg, in nomination for the office of State Senator. Mr. Bucknam, the Waupaca county prohibitionist, presented a verbal biographical sketch of Mr. Radcliffe, who had recently been nominated by the prohibitionists for the same office. N. E. Lawler objected to the proposed nominee on account of him being a prohibitionist and not in sympathy with the populist movement. J. W. Case, having seconded Larabee's motion for Radcliffe, Lawler wanted to know what he was doing here, to which Case replied that he is a freeholder and a free born American citizen and had a right in the convention. It was then stated that the meeting was a mass convention. The few delegates present were all residents of Portage county. A lively set-to of words was then had between Messrs. Larabee and Lawler, after which the latter presented the name of D. F. Kennedy for senator, saying they want straight out and out populists, and if any other is nominated they would lose "one hundred votes" in the 2d ward alone. This, of course, was a stretch of the imagination, but a very pretty one. A motion to nominate Radcliffe was lost by a vote of 2 to 4. After some more sparring, Knute J. Lien, of Alban, was nominated, but as he is a strong Republican, the chances for his acceptance are not of the best. S. A. Sherman, Peter Peterson and J. C. Sherley, all of this county, were then named as a Senatorial committee, after which the meeting adjourned sine die.

After the convention, Mr. Lien declined to allow his name to remain upon the ticket, "for reasons best known to himself," and that of Geo. Radcliffe, the prohibitionist, was substituted by the committee. Mr. Radcliffe is not a Populist in any sense, and does not endorse their platform.

The county convention was immediately called to order by Mr. Sherman, who was made chairman and Mr. Lappen secretary. Peter Peterson, A. J. Larabee and J. W. Case were appointed a committee on credentials. They adjourned to the Judge's room, followed by the other delegates, and for nearly an hour thereafter most of them seemed to indulge in animated discussion, judging from the loud and excited words heard on the outside. When the committee reappeared they reported a list of delegates present as follows: N. F. Lawler, 2d ward, 3 votes; J. W. Case, 5th ward, 3 votes; S. A. Sherman, Plover, 3 votes; Louis Skogland, T. J. Erickson and Albert Peterson, Amherst, 1 vote each. The following ticket was then placed in nomination:

Assembly—S. A. Sherman.
Sheriff—J. W. Case.
Treasurer—Peter Peterson.
Register of Deeds—John Shipplly.
Clerk of Court—W. J. Delaney.
School Supt.—Miss Mary E. Dougherty.

Dist. Atty.—H. W. Lee.
Coroner—T. J. Erickson.
For the office of district attorney, H. W. Lee was chosen on the second ballot, he receiving 7 votes to 5 for B. B. Park. The offices of county clerk and surveyor were left vacant. A county committee was chosen, comprising the same members as the senatorial committee, after which the convention adjourned.

The three first named upon the ticket are Populists, as is also the nominee for coroner. Miss Dougherty is principal of our 5th ward public school, and has taught here for several years. She is an enthusiastic advocate of Republican doctrine. Messrs. Delaney and Shipplly are both stalwart Democrats and wish THE GAZETTE to announce that under no consideration will they accept the above nomination. H. W. Lee has been a Democrat for some years, but was willing and anxious to secure the nomination at the hands of the Populists.

Miss Andrews Wins.

Temperance Hall was well filled, last Monday evening, to listen to the Demorest silver medal contestants and enjoy the musical and literary program. Six little girls, or rather young ladies, were each desirous of securing the badge of honor, and as but one could get the coveted bit of metal, Rev. L. G. Carr, C. A. Schenk and Fred H. Murray were appointed judges. The contestants were Pearl Ghoca, Mable Whitlock, Maude Harlow, May Pier, Dolly Packard and Maude Andrews, and after comparing notes the latter young lady was awarded the prize. She is a daughter of Sylvester W. Andrews, who lives on the east side of town. Following is the programme as rendered:

Barn Burned and Horses Perish.

When returning from the South Side, at about ten o'clock last Wednesday evening, Philip Field, night watchman for the Green Bay railroad company, noticed a man walking away from the barn of Jas. Gray, situated near the track at the foot of South Second street, but was unable to discover his identity. Soon afterward Mr. Field noticed that the barn was on fire, and he gave the alarm by blowing the engine whistle. Both companies were on the ground with their usual promptness. In the barn were three horses, besides a buggy, harness and a large quantity of hay. Two of the horses were taken from the burning building, but were so burned about the body and head that Policeman Dunegan decided to relieve them from their sufferings. The third was burned or suffocated in the stable. Two of the animals were Mr. Gray's finely matched team, which had taken premiums here and elsewhere in the past, and although one was 25 and the other 18 years old, they were still an excellent team. A Pat Downie colt, aged five years, was the other horse, and the owner estimates his total loss at between $800 and $1,000. The origin of the fire is of course a mystery, and Mr. Gray can hardly conceive the thought that anyone could be low enough to intentionally destroy his property.

The O'Keefe-Conniff Wedding.

John P. O'Keefe, of Stockton, and Miss Tillie Conniff, of this city, were married at St. Mary's church, Stockton, this morning at half past nine o'clock, Rev. J. Hummel, of New London, officiating. David F. and Miss Katie O'Keefe, John and Miss Frankie Conniff, brothers and sisters of the contracting parties, acted as bridesmaids and groomsmen, respectively. The groom is the owner of a 120 acre farm about two miles north of Arnett station, and has just completed the erection of a fine house, barn, granary and other buildings, and immediately after the marriage ceremony all present left for the new home, where a reception is being held today. John is the third son of Patrick O'Keefe, one of Stockton's oldest and wealthiest farmers and is numbered among Portage county's big-hearted, noble young men. The bride has made her home in Stevens Point since last spring, coming here from Stockton, where she was born and grew to womanhood. She is the second daughter of Mrs. John Conniff, and a young lady to whom we take great pleasure in extending our well wishes for a long and happy married life.

Wagon Making and Repairing.

Having located in the Kelsey blacksmith building, on Water street, Frank Chapman would inform the public that he is prepared to build new wagons and sleighs, and will make repairing a specialty. A call is solicited.

Now in New Quarters.

A. V. Petter, the plumber and gas fitter, has removed to the building recently occupied by the Citizens National bank, where he has commodious quarters. He has just added an elegant line of gas and electric combination fixtures and globes, of all styles, and is prepared to wholesale beer pumps and sewer pipe. Bring in your orders.

PRACTICALLY ACCEPTED.

The Normal School Executive Committee Visits the City.—All Departments Filling Up.

Three members of the Board of Normal School Regents visited this city yesterday. They comprise the executive committee, and are Pres. Ira A. Hill, of Sparta, Secretary F. P. Ainsworth, of River Falls, E. M. Johnson, of Whitewater. They were met by G. W. Selby and D. H. Perkins, the Chicago architects, M. T. Olin, superintendent of the building, and F. S. Ideson, the steam contractor, of Oshkosh. The regents expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the building, which is about completed except as to the hardware and little odds and ends here and there. The hardware was purchased through Peter Gross, of Milwaukee, and the delay was caused by the fact that it had to be made to order in the east. It was shipped by the manufacturers on the 15th inst., and is expected to arrive at any time. The architects recommended the holding back of small amounts for the completion as above noted, but otherwise the contractors were settled with in full. Messrs. Hill, Ainsworth and Johnson left on the noon train for Madison, where they are in executive session today. Messrs. Selby & Perkins were accompanied by their wives, and left for home last night.

Everything about the Normal School building is running as smooth as clock work. And this reminds us of the fact that the building will be supplied with a clock that will call each class in the Normal departments, designate the time for recess and dismissing school, and call each session of the school to order. It is a wonderful contrivance, and is connected with each room by alarm and call bells.

Both the intermediate and grammar departments are now full, with 43 in the first and 45 in the latter, and no more will be admitted until vacancies occur. Those who would like to enter either of these departments, should leave their names with Pres. Pray, so that they may be assigned when the opportunity presents itself.

In the primary department there were 36 little ones yesterday. Forty is the limit in this department, and it will be reached no doubt, in a few days.

Real Estate Transfers.

According to the report of Chas. A. Lane, county clerk, the total number of city and village lots sold in the county for the year ending Sept. 1st, 1894, is 262½, while a total of 33,038 acres of land changed hands during the same time. The consideration named in the deeds amounted to the magnificent sum of $448,321, while the assessed value of the same property was $106,372. This certainly speaks well for a "hard times" year, and we doubt if there is another county in the state that can present as good a showing in real estate transfers.

The Kirmess.

There were many empty seats at the Grand Opera House last night, but still the total receipts amounted to the neat sum of $215.00, which is considered good for the opening night's presentation of "The Kirmess." It is given under the patronage of the ladies of the Episcopal church, directed by Prof. H. E. Speedy, of Detroit. The initial performance was one of the finest ever given by home talent in this city, and speaks well not only for the director, but for each participant as well, and there were 118 of them last night. To speak of each individual one, therefore, would be an impossibility, but we must not forget the solos rendered by Miss Hattie Horn, Miss Ethel Kirwan, Miss Georgie Chandler and E. O. Stumpf, all of which were excellent. The dancing was all superb, but especially was the scarf dance, the flower dance, the Highland Ring and the fisher's hornpipe. The little representatives of bonny Scotland, Georgie Olin, Lizzie Bremmer and Inez Welch, proved a great attraction, their dancing being almost perfect, and by special request they will again appear tonight and tomorrow night. The banjo duet by Edith Burr and Gerald Jensen, two little ones, called forth a hearty encore, and the dancing by Mrs. Gaylord Macnish and Mr. Macnish as the lone fisherman, were among the best on the program. The Amphion orchestra furnished music, and Miss Katherine Ball and Mrs. W. F. Atwell presided at the piano. The performance will be given tonight and tomorrow night, with a change of program, and it is hoped there will be a full house on each occasion.

New Opera House Opened.

Stevens Point now has as fine an Opera House as any city of its size in the west, and she certainly is and has every reason to feel pleased and proud. The dedication of this new place of amusement took place last Wednesday evening, at which time the audience was not as large as it should have been, but was composed of many of our best people. The house is a handsome structure in all respects, capable of seating about seven hundred people, while the acoustic properties are perfect. The lighting is also of the best, the house being lighted by over three hundred incandescent lamps. When these are fully turned on, the scene presented is a brilliant one. All parts of the stage can be seen by every person in the audience, there being no obstruction no matter where one sits, and the seats in the main auditorium and balcony are commodious and comfortable. The scenery and drop curtain are works of artistic skill, and will be the more admired as they are brought to the public notice. Mr. Andrae deserves due praise for this great addition to our city, a place where our people can go and pass an evening of ease and enjoyment when the opportunity presents itself, and his liberality is duly appreciated by the public. The lessees and managers, F. E. Bosworth and E. O. Stumpf, will do all in their power to make the Grand Opera House a popular resort, worthy of the patronage of our leading citizens, and in this respect they hope to have good support. The opening play, "A Clean Sweep," afforded much amusement, the company having several clever actors and no amateurs, and the performance was above the average in all respects.

Death of Dr. Mix.

Dr. W. Barney Mix, who practiced his profession in this city about twenty years ago, died at St. Joseph's Hospital, in Chicago, one week ago last Sunday. For eighteen years and six months Dr. Mix had been confined to this institution, being unable to leave his bed all of this time, except when he was carried about by kind attendants. A paralytic stroke affecting his spine, so that he had not the slightest use of his lower limbs, was the cause of this, but through all of these years he did not suffer physical pain. He was ever cheerful, and all who visited the hospital during the past eighteen years will remember his kindly face and manner. The Dr. will not soon be forgotten by the old residents of Stevens Point.

Notice.

Clifford will give a special sale of ladies' and children's winter underwear on next Saturday and Monday. Don't fail to attend.

Living Pictures in Stevens Point.

Nearly everyone has read about and many have seen the new form of amusement brought into existence during the present summer season, called "living pictures." They have attracted considerable attention, and have enjoyed big runs in the large cities, and have been widely advertised all over this country and Europe. In some localities, "living pictures" have been given by young society ladies for the benefit of the church and other worthy charities. In very many of the larger cities, shrewd theatrical managers, catering to the depraved tastes of the public, have by the use of the "living picture" craze, made fortunes for themselves. In New York they went so far in their living picture exhibitions as to narrowly escape arrest. In Paris their exhibitions became so indecent that the authorities had to interfere, and even in licentious Paris there was a limit to these exhibitions.

Talk about living pictures, ye Gods! Let no man say he never saw one. Stevens Point has a living picture show before which those of New York, Buffalo, London and Paris pale into insignificance. The man in the case is a benedict, and is also an edition-de-luxe of the devil himself. His record would put any "rabbit warren" to shame. He is in certain respects far superior to the celebrated trotter, B. B. P. A more direct description might be given of him, but this will suffice for the present. The young woman in the case is neither sweet nor wholesome, but has a reputation as unsavory as a crumpled bar towel.

Judging from appearances, one would think she merely wore clothes more for the sake of avoiding arrest than adorning her person. The exhibition is given several times each week, in the second story of a certain building on a public street, located in the heart of the business district. For the benefit of the principals engaged in this exhibition, we would suggest that in the future they draw the curtains down, or rather have some put on. The neglect of this in the past was no doubt the cause of the recent dry spell.

Sunday in Stockton.

Nearly fifty of the relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobs, of Stockton, spent Sunday afternoon at their commodious home in the town of Stockton, per invitation previously extended. About thirty of the guests present were from this city, driving out in time for the mid-day meal, and although the wind whisked through the pine and oak groves at the rate of forty miles a minute, gaining in velocity to sixty miles after reaching the open prairie, the trip was highly enjoyed by each and every one present. The day was passed amid much sociability, being a good old fashioned Kirmess in some respects, and nothing was left undone by the host and hostess, assisted by their sons and daughters, to make the short stay a pleasant one. And in this they succeeded admirably. Mr. Jacobs is one of the well-to-do residents of Stockton, having purchased what is known as the John Finch farm several years ago, and is continually adding to his store of this world's goods.

To Depart for Chicago.

Dr. Jno. D. McGregor leaves for Chicago this week, which city he intends to make his future home. He has formed a copartnership with Dr. C. E. Greenfield, a physician who has enjoyed a large practice there for the past twelve or fifteen years, and the latter's present address, 260 S. Halsted street, corner of Harrison, is one of the best locations on the west side. Dr. Greenfield is also a professor of materia medica and therapeutics in the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Dr. McGregor is a young physician of considerable ability, while his skill as a surgeon is recognized by all, including the older practitioners. He is a Stevens Point native, and a graduate of Rush Medical College, class of '91. After graduating, Dr. McGregor spent a short time in Chicago, and thereafter practiced at Waukegan, Ill., returning to this city a couple of years ago. He was also stationed for several months at Brainerd, Minn., as assistant physician and surgeon for the Northern Pacific R. Co. In his present move he will step into a lucrative, well-established practice, and while many friends regret his departure, they recognize and appreciate the advantages to him that will follow.

Died at Hurley.

John Houlehan, a young man quite well known in this city, died at his home in Hurley at 10 o'clock last Sunday evening, after a month's illness with typhoid fever, together with other complications. The funeral took place Tuesday morning, and was attended by his mother, Mrs. Jas. Houlehan, two sisters, Mrs. Dan. McAuliffe and Mrs. Robt. Phalen, and two brothers, Richard and Dr. G. M. Houlehan, all of this city. He has two more brothers, Edward, of Tomahawk, and Bernard, of Hurley, and they also were present. The many friends who knew him in this city will be pained to learn of his death. He was a member of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin, and his family will receive $2,000 from that organization.

A Little One Called Away.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Playman mourn the loss of their youngest child, a little girl, aged 5 months and 23 days, who passed away last Friday forenoon after an illness of one week with cholera infantum. Funeral services were held at the residence, 523 Ellis street, Saturday forenoon, and the remains taken to Neenah on the 12:30 train for interment. The parents have the sympathy of many friends in their affliction.

Budded on earth to blossom in heaven,
A little life just begun,
The youngest, the dear little baby,
Her little form shall be seen no more.
The little face that mid the dowers lay,
Has passed through the Golden Gate,
Into her tender Saviour's keeping.
And kindly is the lesson given to all;
Then dry the falling tear;
She came to raise your hearts to heaven;
She's gone to call you there. E. K.

THEY HAVE COLD NERVE

OLD GANG WANT ANOTHER TURN AT THE TREASURY.

Turned Down, Thrown Overboard and Still Unrepentant, the Republican Party Asks To Be Taken Back—Story Illustrating the Situation—Democrats Take a Bankrupt Treasury and by Wise Economy Pile Up Such a Surplus That State Taxes Are Almost Entirely Wiped Out—The Sawyer Crowd Says This Don't Count.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 17.—There is something almost amusing in the cool nerve exhibited by the Republican party this year in asking that the state government be again turned over to its control. When it is considered that this is the same party which the people of the state so unceremoniously dropped overboard four years ago for reasons as numerous and as palpable as the thistles in a backwoods pasture, the nerve of the demand can be better appreciated.

SAME OLD CROWD.
There has been no change in the party leadership; no new methods in its policy. It is the same old crowd that were caught with their hands in the state treasury and then attempted to prove an alibi. If the Republican party is successful this fall ex-Senator Sawyer will assume his old role of dictator and his satellites will revolve about, bowing and nodding to each crook of his finger, just as they did before the revolution of 1890. The state, it will be Sawyer.

This is no exaggerated picture the recent Republican state convention proved. Those who participated in the work of that body could, if they would, tell some canny and over true stories of the manner in which Uncle Philatus' heavy Oshkosh hand was felt. It is now well known that not only was the head of the ticket placed at his disposal on demand, but the office of secretary of state dropped into the hands of another favorite. These two offices were necessary for the successful issue of certain plans which Uncle Philatus has in mind, the van guard of which is shown by the demand made by Mr. Sawyer's railroad for interest on the money which Mr. Sawyer's state treasurers retained unlawfully, and which was returned through Democratic efforts.

Yet in the face of their past record and future plans, in the face of the fact that the record of the Democratic administration for the past four years is unparalleled in the history of the state for honesty, economy and faithful redemption of promises, it seems the Republicans have iron-bound gall to insist that this year the reins of government ought to be turned over again to them.

A GOOD STORY.
What this demand means is well told in a homely illustration used by Attorney General O'Connor in a recent speech. Mr. O'Connor said:

"Suppose any man in this audience had a servant by the name of Philatus employed for a period of about thirty years; that four years ago you became suspicious that your servant Philatus was not transacting your business with exact honesty. Suppose another man came along seeking the job, whose name was George, and George told you that your man Philatus had been taking your money and appropriating it to his own use; that he had already appropriated the sum of $500, and George offered to do your work cheaper than Philatus, and also promised to make Philatus pay back every dollar of your money which he had taken in violation of law and good morals.

"Now, suppose further, that you had good sense enough to dismiss Philatus and employ George. George does your work faithfully, economically, honestly, and has greatly increased your income. After a long and bitter struggle with Philatus he overcomes him and compels him to pay back to you your $500, with legal interest thereon, and otherwise fulfills every promise which he made you.

"Now, suppose at the end of four years you and George are discussing the proposition of retaining George for a period of a few years longer. You are interrupted by Philatus, who appears upon the scene and boldly states that you ought to dismiss George and employ him again. George replies, 'But, master, can you forget that I have been faithful to every charge which you placed in my hand? I have kept every promise which I made you.' You answer, 'That is so, George,' and Philatus nods his head in assent.

"George says further, 'Did I not show you that Philatus was dishonest; that he had taken your money? Did I not compel him to pay it back? And here are some of the checks as evidence of my work.'

"You answer, 'Yes, that is true, George,' and Philatus scowls, but cannot contradict it. But in his cunning he says, 'I had a right to take that money, and it was wrong to make me pay it back. It is true George did all of this; I find no fault with his work. He has done all he said he would and to my great sorrow, much more than I wish he had done; but I think notwithstanding all my former conduct, notwithstanding the fact that I make no promise to do better in the future, I think you ought to take me back, trust me and dismiss George.'

"You ask him to give the reason why and Philatus replies: 'Because some distant relative of George's mother-in-law way down in Washington got into bad company with some brothers of mine—they did what my brothers asked them to do and failed to keep all the promises which they made you.'

"Which of these two men, let me ask, would any honest Republican employ in his private business? I pause for an answer. Let me answer it for you. You would order Philatus out of your house, and if he failed to take a quick departure you would probably kick him out for the insult he offered your honesty, your integrity and your intelligence."

DEMAND TO BE TAKEN BACK.
This is the present situation, so far as an unprejudiced spectator can see, to a meeting. Instead of George put the Democratic party, and in place of Philatus put the Republican party. The latter plundered the treasury, thereby robbing the school of the state of money which properly belonged to them, and left the treasury bankrupt, to say nothing of other unbusinesslike methods. The Democratic party recovered the money taken by the ex-state treasurers, and taking the treasury worse of than nothing by $45,000, at the end of four years, by wise economy, is able to reduce the state tax three quarters of a million of dollars, to say nothing of the thorough business methods introduced into state affairs.

Yet, in spite of all this, the Republican party asks the people to take it back, and not the least amiss part of the demand is the leaders expect it will be complied with.

DEATH IN A CYCLONE.

Fatal Work of the Notary Terror in the Hawkeye State.

EMMETTSBURG, Iowa, Sept. 22.—A terrific cyclone passed over this section at 8 o'clock last evening. Many ruined houses and several deaths tell its sad results. The Foley House, one-half mile south of this city, is demolished. A daughter is dead, and father, mother and son are frightfully wounded. Mrs. Foley's arms are both broken and she can hardly recover. Mrs. Alexander Golden, living a few miles east of here, is dead, and Mr. Golden is not expected to live. In the little town of Cylinder, six miles east of here, there are two or three houses blown down and several persons injured. Several others whose names have not been learned are missing and many are supposed to be killed or wounded.

George Morse and Oliver Cole were in a slaughter house when it was struck and narrowly escaped with their lives. The buildings on the fair grounds, but a few rods away, are demolished. In Great Oak township, five miles southwest of here, the storm was very severe. Many buildings are reported to have been blown down. Owing to the local confusion that prevails it is impossible to obtain accurate and reliable reports in several parts of this city. The storm was severe, but no serious damage was done.

Three Reported Dead at Leroy.
ST. PAUL, Sept. 22.—The town of Leroy, Minn., is reported to have been partially ruined by a cyclone late last evening. The telegraph operator at McIntyre reports that three people were killed at Leroy, and the whole eastern part of the town badly damaged. A fire about the same time destroyed a hotel and three stores.

DODGE CENTER, Minn., Sept. 22.—A cyclone struck this place at 8:50 last evening, blowing Warren Fairbank's warehouse down and scattering it across the railroad track. Several barns and smaller buildings are blown down and shade trees are badly damaged. The Windsor House barn was blown down.

Urgent Call for Doctors.
ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 22.—From the Chicago Great Western railway officers it is learned that the storm struck New Haven, Iowa, and as doctors have been called there from Riceville it is thought that many people have been injured. The little village of Lowther, Minn., is reported wiped out, not a building being left standing.

HAFLEY, THE COUNTERFEITER.

His Arrest at Ashley, Ill., Considered a Very Important Capture.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The arrest of A. H. Hafley, alias Waterman, at Ashley, Ill., is regarded as a very important capture by Chief of the Secret Service Hazen. The plate which he counterfeited (the $20 Manning note) was so well calculated to deceive that an Arkansas sheriff who made the first arrest in the case sent to the treasury department a genuine note along with one of the counterfeit notes as samples of the counterfeit. The counterfeit had been made less than two months and it is believed that not more than $4,000 were printed. The plate was made by a photograph engraving process on copper.

Young Hafley, who did the work, and who is only about 25 years old, it is believed at one time was employed in the bureau of engraving and printing in this city. The Wilson brothers, who were arrested at Jonesboro, Ark., while "showing" the counterfeit, are wealthy state dealers. They advanced the money for the plant, it is alleged. Young Hafley came to grief through a woman. He was traced to Buffalo through her and captured through means of directions sent to the Buffalo postoffice for forwarding his mail.

Another Counterfeiter Arrested.
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22.—Near Castalia, S. D., United States Marshal Ryan has captured Levi Clark, a counterfeiter, together with tools for coming money on a large scale. Clark worked to a small house out on the prairie, and his place was discovered by accident.

Two More Respectable Bascals.
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22.—William Ledbetter, a farmer, and J. H. Clayton, an engineer living near St. Clair, Mo., have been brought here under arrest for counterfeiting silver dollars.

HOLOCAUST AT WASHINGTON.

Fire Breaks Out in a Mattress Factory with Terrible Results.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The most fatal fire of recent years in Washington was the burning of the mattress factory of Stumph & Bros. Four bodies are at the morgue, charred and crushed beyond recognition; one is dead at the hospital; three injured men are at the hospital, and there may be others buried under the ruins, as several of the workmen are unaccounted for. Two of the dead at the morgue are now known to be William H. Tenneyson, an old man employed in the factory, and Willie Ashe, a boy of 18 years, and James F. Vaughn, a clerk, is the man dead at the hospital. Four others who are missing are Henry Fowler, Philip Ackerman, Robert Reitzel and an old man who had been employed in the factory but a few days and whose name is not remembered by his employer.

ALIX THE TROTTER QUEEN.

Does the Mile in a Quarter of a Second Below the Record.

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 20.—Fifteen thousand people yelled themselves hoarse when the great trotting queen Alix beat the world's record by coming under the wire in 2:03 1/4. The day was an ideal one for such an event and the track was in good condition. The interest was so intense that when the event was announced and the mare was brought out the crowd cheered and pushed itself out on the track until it was dense with people. Williams asked all who wanted Alix to beat the world's record to stand back, and this not answering company C was sent down the track, clearing it and establishing a line to keep men back. Among those who saw the race was Senator Cullom.

The Case Against Debs.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The government is preparing to submit the final arguments in the case against President Debs of the American Railway Union, Sept. 23, at Chicago.

Iowa Soldiers' Home Shortage.

MAISHAL TOWN, Sept. 21.—The shortage in the Iowa Soldiers' home accounts has been reduced to $300 by two weeks' investigation of the official committee.

CHICAGO bankers have come to the front en masse and furnished the $123,000 needed to pay the national guard organizations of the city for their services during the railroad troubles. It is a valuable public service, for the men need their pay and the state can do nothing until the legislature meets, when the necessary amounts will without doubt be appropriated, together with interest on the advances. The bad feature of the affair is that some of the more needy of the soldiers have already been obliged to sacrifice a portion of their claims to money sharks.—Ex.

OUT FOR FREE SILVER.

OHIO DEMOCRACY STANDS BY THE WHITE METAL.

And Declares for the Election of United States Senators by Popular Vote—Balance of the Platform a Regulation Party Declaration.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 20.—The Democratic state convention consumed about four hours in making an important bit of history. The convention was slow in convening, the all-night session of the committee on resolutions being responsible for the delay. The decorations of the Grand Opera House, where the convention was held, were rather meagre, the principal display being a picture of President Cleveland, with an artistic drapery of flags and bunting, over the centre of the stage. The entrance of Representative Tom Johnson at the head of the Cuyahoga county delegation was the occasion for an outburst of applause that indicated that he had many followers among the delegates.

Platform for Free Silver.

The platform is, so far as the tariff and nearly every other matter is concerned, a standard Democratic declaration, but on silver it takes a departure that has been taken by several platforms of both the old parties, and says: "We dissent from the president's views, construction and treatment of the silver question, and therefore believe that silver should be restored to the position it occupied as money prior to its demonetization by the Republican party, and to that end we favor the unlimited coinage of silver at the legal ratio of 16 to 1 and with equal legal tender power." Otherwise the administration is endorsed fully, and both these planks were loudly applauded. The Republican state administration comes in for a scolding, and a law is favored limiting the amount of money to be expended by candidates, and another prohibiting free passes on railroads.

TOM JOHNSON'S MINORITY REPORT.

He Wants the United States Senator Elected by the Popular Vote.

When the applause had subsided Hon. Tom Johnson submitted the following minority report, signed by six members of the committee: "We favor the selection of United States senators by direct vote of the people; and for the purpose of practically effecting that end we hereby direct that the Democratic state central committee, in issuing the call for the state convention for the nomination of state officers in the year 1895, include therein the announcement that a candidate for United States senator will be named by said convention, who shall receive the support of the Democratic members of the legislature thereafter to be elected."

As the resolution had been discussed and defeated in the meeting of the committee on resolutions as an anti-Brice measure there was considerable demonstration upon the Brice men when it was read in the convention. Johnson spoke briefly upon the minority report. He said the election of senators by direct vote would bring them closer to the people and cited the case of Palmer of Illinois, who was the first Democratic senator elected in that state since the war. John J. Clark, of Mahoning county, secured the floor as the applause following Johnson's speech had subsided and threw the convention into an uproar by stating that worth and ability were no longer required in the selection of United States senators, but the main consideration was the length of the purse.

Mingled hisses and applause almost drowned the speaker's voice, but at intervals his voice rang out clear and decisive. An effort to declare him out of order was ruled out by Chairman Hurd. Jesse Lewis, of Urbana, wanted the convention to defer the question of electing United States senator by vote of the people for one year, which was met by cries of "No!" General Finlay spoke in the interest of harmony. Cries for Johnson brought the free trade congressman again to the front, and he said he did not believe that Brice had bought his seat in the senate, and he did not believe there was any occasion for the ill feeling which seemed to exist.

Virgil P. Cline, of Cleveland, thought the people should be a little nearer to the senate, and there was nothing to prevent the people making their wants known to their representatives. James P. Seward came to the front with an amendment to take the sting out of the minority report. This proposed to strike out all which followed the simple declaration in favor of electing United States senators by direct vote. The amendment was strongly opposed, but was adopted by a vote of 467 to 328. The minority report was then made a part of the majority report.

The free silver plank was also the source of contention. Seven members of the committee on resolutions, among them Tom L. Johnson, Virgil P. Cline, Frank Hurd and Congressman Pearson, submitted the following minority report: "We believe in honest money, the coinage of gold and silver, and a circulating medium convertible into such money without loss. We are opposed to free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1. We favor the coinage of silver under such legislative restrictions as will maintain the circulation of both gold and silver on a parity, and we reaffirm the doctrine of the national Democratic platform of 1892 upon the subject of currency and money."

As the free silver question was switched into the discussion on the senatorial matter there was little discussion on it, the minority report being defeated by a vote of 486 to 319. The platform as amended was then adopted.

The following ticket was nominated: For secretary of state, Milton Turner, of Guernsey; judge of the supreme court, James D. Ermiton, of Hamilton; member of the board of public works, Harry B. Keffer, of Tuscarawas; state commissioner of common schools, Dr. J. A. Leach, of Franklin.

Senator Brice left for the east last night.

The state central committee elected the following executive committee: Chairman, Allen W. Thurman, Columbus; temporary secretary, W. C. Gear, of Wyandotte; county, Judge Lewis D. Rucker, of Mansfield; W. E. Decker, of Paulding; D. H. Mulligan, of Belmont; Judge F. M. Hagan, of Springfield; H. H. Beach, of Coshocton; L. G. Bernard, of Cincinnati; Sheriff W. K. Ryan, of Cuyahoga county; Henry Appthorp, of Ashtabula, and W. J. Masca, of Muskingum.

While in Chicago, Mr. Chas. L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had bad colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drugstore. FOR DEEP WATERWAYS.

Fair Attendance at the International Convention at Toronto.

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—The international deep waterways convention opened in the city council chamber. The attendance was fair, although the full number of delegates had not yet arrived. Over the mayor's chair the flags of the United States and Canada were gracefully blended. Mayor Kennedy welcomed the strangers to the city. A nominating committee, with James Suydam of St. Paul as chairman, was then appointed to recommend officers and committees for the convention.

This committee recommended the following officers, whose selection was afterward endorsed by the general committee: Chairman, A. J. E. Thompson, Toronto; first vice chairman, E. V. Smalley, Minneapolis; second vice chairman, R. L. Dohell, Quebec; secretaries, J. H. Boyle, Toronto, and D. B. Smith, Toledo. Among those who handed in their credentials were E. V. Smalley, Minneapolis; James Suydam and Colonel J. H. Davidson, St. Paul; Lieutenant Glow, U. S. N., Cleveland; John Fitzgibbon, Detroit; L. R. Keck, Cincinnati; Captain D. S. Dunham and L. E. Cooley, board of trade, Chicago.

At the first meeting the proceedings consisted mainly of addresses by Mayor Kennedy of Toronto, Colonel Davidson of St. Paul and E. V. Smalley of Minneapolis. Mr. Smalley's speech was strongly in favor of free trade between the United States and Canada. At the close of the meeting a committee on resolutions was appointed, with James Suydam of St. Paul as chairman. L. E. Cooley is the Chicago representative on the committee. The convention will settle down to its real business immediately.

NO HOPE FOR BRECKINRIDGE.

The District Committee Will Refuse to Throw Out Any Votes.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 19.—There is absolutely no doubt that W. C. Owens has secured the nomination as Democratic candidate for congress from the Ashland district. The official count of the various county committees shows a plurality for Owens of 270 over Breckinridge. While Breckinridge seems determined to have a contest before the district committee at Frankfort next Saturday there is no doubt that the committee will refuse to throw the nomination to Breckinridge, as such action will, in the opinion of conservative Democrats, completely disrupt the Democratic party in this district.

Several strong Breckinridge men were interviewed and all express themselves as opposed to any contest. They say that Breckinridge is undoubtedly defeated and believe that it would be bad policy to stand against the will of the people. A number of bets against Owens have been paid. The wide interest in the election was shown by a telegram from Lakota, N. D., asking: "Can Breckinridge win?" The answer was sent: "He cannot win, Pauline; he cannot win." Colonel Breckinridge was on the streets of Lexington a great deal during the day and greeted everybody with his customary politeness.

Took an Appeal to Eternity.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 20.—J. W. Johnson, deputy United States marshal, has returned a warrant issued for the arrest of J. S. Little, postmaster at Mayflower, Barry county, wanted for opening a registered letter and taking $40. The warrant was returned with the statement that Little was dead. The accused told the officer that he would be dead in two hours and asked permission to lie down, which was granted, the officer keeping close watch. But the prisoner had a knife concealed in his clothes and he stabbed himself to the heart.

Took a Frightful Leap.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Charles Heckman, a cabinet maker out of work and despondent, rode up town on the Sixth Avenue elevated as far as One Hundred and Twenty street, where the track is 114 feet above ground. Then without a word he sprang from the rear platform, clearing the railing, and fell. After turning over and over in the air he struck some telegraph wires, from which he bounced and then fell with a splash into a puddle of water in the gutter. He was terribly injured internally and will surely die.

Made It Easy for the Bandits.

MEMPHIS, Mo., Sept. 20.—The grand jury has indicted Abrams and Overfield, the two robbers who attacked the Santa Fe train, for assault with intent to kill, an offense punishable in $2,000, and the officers who captured these thugs are in a state of mind. The judge was surprised when the indictment was read. The cases will go over until November.

Engine Became Unmanageable.

MOBERLY, Mo., Sept. 19.—The Wabash railroad's Omaha-St. Louis train was wrecked near Clifton, just west of here. The engine became unmanageable and ran away for a considerable distance, until it was derailed. No passengers were injured but Fireman Frank Kaiser was thrown from the cab and probably fatally hurt.

THE GRAND ARMY'S COMMANDER.

Colonel Lawler the Second Foreign Born Veteran to Fill the Office.

Of the many thousands of foreign born soldiers who fought bravely on the side of the Union during the war but two have ever been chosen commanders in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. The first to receive the honor was General Louis Wagner, born in Gessen, Germany, and elected commander in 1880. The second was Colonel Thomas G. Lawler, who was recently chosen to the high office at the annual encampment in Pittsburgh. Colonel Lawler is a native of Liverpool, England, and was born half a century ago the 7th of last April. He came to America when a child, and his parents located in Rockford, Ill., where poverty prevented his enjoying any educational advantage worth mentioning.

He was a boy of 17 when Fort Sumter was fired upon and was one of the first to volunteer when Lincoln called for 75,000 men to crush the rebellion. He went to the front with Company E, Nineteenth Illinois volunteer infantry. When his three months had expired, he re-enlisted and served with distinction in the ranks throughout the war. He was in the battles of Stone River, Chickamauga, Mission Ridge, Bailey's Crossroads and all other engagements in which his regiment participated. When he was mustered out as sergeant brevet captain, General W. S. Rosecrans commended him for gallant and meritorious services. He received his title of colonel through a dozen years' service with the Illinois national guard.

After the war Mr. Lawler began driving a flour wagon for a living. He was very popular, and when the naming of a postmaster of Rockford in 1877 was decided by the vote of the town's citizens Lawler was elected by an overwhelming majority, although he was not an active candidate for the position. It was quite a step from the seat of a flour wagon to the postmaster's office, but Lawler made it gracefully and effectively. After an eight years' absence from the postoffice he was again appointed when President Harrison was inaugurated.

When the Rockford rifles were organized, he was elected first lieutenant. He became a captain later, and still later was made colonel of the Third regiment, Illinois national guard. Soon after the organization of G. L. Nevius post No. 1, department of Illinois, G. A. R., the oldest post in the United States, Lawler was elected post commander, an office he has held 25 years and still holds. Several years ago he was elected department commander of Illinois and discharged his duties with rare tact and ability. He is one of the best drillmasters in Illinois, a born soldier, a strict disciplinarian and a natural leader of men.

TO ELEVATE THE FREEDMEN.

Life Work of Mrs. Harper, the Colored Lecturer and Author.

For nearly 50 years Mrs. Frances Ellen Watkins Harper, a venerable colored woman of education and refinement, has been hard at work endeavoring to better the condition of her race. She was born in Baltimore 69 years ago and was one of the few colored children permitted to go to school when old enough to begin the acquisition of an education. The school was conducted by her uncle, William MRS. F. E. W. HARPER. Watkins, a shoemaker, and by the time she was 14 years of age she had secured a very fair knowledge of the three R's. She then left school, but continued studying and learned dressmaking in order to secure the means needed to fit her for her chosen calling—that of a teacher.

The condition of her race excited her heartiest sympathies, and when the Maine and Vermont Antislavery society asked her to champion the cause of the enslaved negro she gladly hailed the opportunity. She was engaged for some time in work for the Pennsylvania Antislavery society and for seven years held a position in the Women's Christian Temperance union, of which she is still an organizer. In 1860 she gave up lecturing, and after the war devoted herself to work among the freedmen. There were other women lecturers of her race who made reputations on the platform, but Mrs. Harper is one of the few survivors.

Although she is well along in years, she is as interested as ever in the welfare of the colored race and is occasionally seen on the platform. The moral elevation of the colored woman is now her theme, for she believes that "the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world," and that the future elevation of the negro is in the hands of the negro's mother. "In endeavoring to build up the home life," she says, "we must reach the mothers of the race."

Mrs. Harper has also been busy with her pen for years and has written a number of books of poems and a history of the colored race since it was emancipated. No woman of her race has equalled her as writer and lecturer, it is said. She resides in Philadelphia with her daughter and is a very busy woman for one of her years.

Says He Is Acquainted With the Gods.

At Longching, in China, a young fellow from Tainingfu, in Chihli, is practicing on the credulity of the people. He represents himself as possessing a bowl of marvelous virtues, which he proposes to take to Peking and present to the empress dowager, whose birthday is to be celebrated this autumn. He represents himself as having lived at one time in Shanshi and having then been suddenly spirited away to the Ling mountains, where he dwelt 18 years and made the acquaintance of the gods. Seated in the room which he has prepared for him, he "knows" to all who come. The number of the deluded ones is immense. Men, women and children flock to him by the thousand. A wooden sword which he carries is able, he asserts, to dissipate all evil influences. In order to have him flourish this wonderful weapon, presents of cloth, food and cash pour in upon him. Mothers take him their children to name and consult him as to how to keep off disease and ill luck.

The Late Peter Black.

Peter Black, whose death was noted in our last issue, was born at Prescott, Ontario, and was 34 years of age. He came to Wisconsin in 1876, when a boy, and had lived here, at Merrill and Tomahawk ever since. Six years ago he was married to Miss Mary Leary, daughter of the late John Leary, but they had no children. After being taken ill, nearly two years ago, he spent some time at Mt. Clemens, Mich., and also at his old home in Canada, hoping to recover his health, but the relief was only temporary. He came to the home of his uncle, Hugh Black, in Stockton, last March, and was able to be about until a couple weeks before his death. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Black, and three brothers and five sisters, all residents of Canada, survive him, besides the young wife and other relatives. The pall bearers were John Higgins, Dennis Laughlin, Peter Doyle, John O'Keefe, Michael O'Keefe and Jas. Reddan.

Painless Dentistry.

Dr. J. W. Campbell, Dentist, of 614 Goldsmith bldg., Milwaukee, Wis., has arranged to be at the Jacobs House, Stevens Point, the FIRST SATURDAY AFTER THE SECOND MONDAY in each month for the practice of dentistry. The doctor has used this method for 14 years in constant practice, with most happy results. It is conceded by all Dental Colleges to be the ideal method of extracting teeth, as it has no taste or odor, and does not sicken the patient. There is no extra charge for its use, and where plates are to be inserted there is no extra charge for extracting teeth. Natural looking sets of teeth made to fit the first time. sp5tf

B. B. P. WINS AGAIN.

The Little Three Year Old Wonder Wins Three Heats out of Four, at Galesburg, Ill., Trotting in the Mud.

There were some good races at Galesburg, Ill., last week, including those on Friday, which were waited with more than usual interest by the people of this city, as B. B. P. was to again contest for new laurels at this time. A heavy rain set in the night before, making the track heavy and several seconds slow. As a consequence several of the races were postponed until Saturday, and Frank Loomis, the driver of B. B. P., pleaded for some time with the management for the privilege of withdrawing his horse from the 2:24 class. This they would not listen to, however, as the race had been filled and must go. There were twelve starters, and four of them were distanced in the first heat, which B. B. P. won in 2:20. In the second heat the little stallion was run into by some of the other horses, which caused him to break and act badly, and he came in third. In the next heat it was evident to those present that it was the field against B. B. P., as he was compelled to score at least a dozen times, hoping thereby to tire out the little youngster, but they found their mistake when he came in first in 2:18. He had been the favorite throughout the race, and was now more so than ever. The last heat was trotted in the dark, and was won by the Stevens Point horse in 2:17, he going at a phenomenal gait to the third quarter, when Loomis eased up on him and let him jog home. The purse was $1,000. His next race will be at Lexington, Ky., on the 12th of October, for a purse of $12,000, and at this time both of the owners, Louis Brill and Emmons Burr, intend to be present and again witness the work of their favorite.

HOPE FOR THE HAIRLESS.

Professor Birkholz, of Chicago, gives hope to those afflicted with Baldness. "A No Cure, No Pay" Treatment.

Prof. G. Birkholz, of Chicago, the eminent German specialist, who for years has devoted his time and talent to the study of the hair follicles, and who has evolved the most successful treatment for baldness the world has ever known.

He will carefully examine each case and candidly inform the inquirer whether his baldness can be cured and the hair be restored. These examinations are made without charge.

In all cases where there are any hair follicles remaining undestroyed by age or disease, the Professor will undertake a cure, and if he does not effect a restoration of the hair he will ask no pay.

The remedy is an imported one, and the treatment given by the Professor is his own, and cures where all others fail. In your case his best pronounced doubt is to take it as a final answer until you have seen Professor Birkholz and received his opinion.

Many persons have small bald spots through the hair. These increase in area and in time produce complete baldness. In such cases the hair follicles need nourishment. Prompt treatment will bring them into activity and restore the hair.

The success that has attended Professor Birkholz everywhere, enables him to give a positive opinion in each case presented to him. Those who are bald, or are threatened with baldness, should not delay treatment, but call upon the Professor at once, 101 Madison Temple, Chicago.

Send this notice to any first-class druggist and he will get the remedy for you at once, if he has not got it in stock.

BULLETS FOR BANDITS.

TRAIN ROBBERS FIND THEIR BUSINESS HAZARDOUS.

An Infanter Given Away the Plot and the Thugs Are Welcomed with a Shower of Lead, Which, However, Is Badly Aimed, and Only One Lead Is Effective.

PORT MADISON, Ia., Sept. 19.—As Santa Fe train No. 5 was nearing Gorin, Mo., about 2:30 in the morning torpedoes on the rails and a red light moving across the track caused the engineer, W. B. Prescott, to reverse his engine and stop as quick as possible. Two masked men mounted the engine and with drawn revolvers ordered the engineer and fireman to hold up their hands, which they did, being unarmed. One of the desperadoes, however, fired at Engineer Prescott, striking him in the right shoulder, the bullet stopping at the bone. Both robbers then left the engine, when the rest of the bandits began firing in the air to intimidate the passengers. The Santa Fe had been expecting an attack and had several detectives on the train, who returned the fire with Winchester, killing one of the horses and putting the thieves to flight. The wounded engineer was returned home on train No. 6, the bullet was removed and he is resting easy.

Did Some Mighty Poor Shooting.

The peculiarity of this affair is that any of the gang got away alive. The company had been warned of the attempt and had made the most careful arrangements to welcome the robbers with "hospitable hands to bloody graves." Ten men armed with Winchester were in the smoker, which had been cleared of passengers by a ruse. The lights were all out and the detectives sat by the open windows with their guns cocked. They saw the robbers plainly and there was a lot of lead wasted. Still it is known that but one of the thugs was hit. The one thing the company can congratulate itself about, however, is that two, at least, of the robbers have been captured, and the report is that all are under arrest. They are all young farmers living near Gorin and Memphis, Mo.

The company had a dead clinch on the robbers. One of the parties in the plot gave it away to the officers about three weeks ago. W. E. McDaniel, who had advised the officers of the plot, time and place, went with C. E. Abrams and Link Overfield, and two others, to Gorin, while the officers so disposed their force as to practically have the whole game in their hands. When the robber shot the engineer Detective Kinnear, who was concealed in the tender, raised up and shot the robber with a double-barreled shotgun, loaded with buck shot, while the men in the cars poured a volley of bullets into the gang, or over it—for it seems that nobody was hurt.

Two of the Robbers Arrested.

The number of robbers is variously stated at four and seven. Charles Abrams and Link Overfield, two of the bandits, were arrested at their homes sixteen miles from Memphis, Mo. They were only captured after a stubborn fight. They both made their way directly to their homes after the attack on the train. Their homes are situated in a lonely part of the country. Abrams, who is the man who received the full load of buckshot in the face, was compelled to walk the entire distance, it being his horse that was killed by the detectives. Arrived at home Abrams was secreted behind a dresser. He had practically run the whole distance, and when Sheriff Salling and his posse came up to the house soon after the arrival he was faint.

However, when he knew that escape was out of the question he made a bold attempt to stand off his captors with a revolver, but the officers had the drop on him and he finally gave in. After he had been handcuffed the search for the other bandits was resumed. On the farm of Mrs. D. Tuill, near by, the officers found Overfield, who had crawled under a bed. The house was first surrounded and a delegation sent in to make a search. Mrs. Tuill and her two daughters stoutly denied that Overfield was in the house.

Overfield showed fight when discovered, but before he could use a revolver he was grabbed by one of the officers. A fierce struggle ensued, the bandit finally being overpowered. Then both he and Abrams, with two brothers of the former, around whom suspicion also rests, were handcuffed and taken to Memphis. The search for the remainder of the gang is being kept up.

Eckels to Ohio Bankers.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21.—The Ohio Bankers' association, in session here, was addressed by Comptroller of the Currency Eckels, who in the course of his speech said: "There is no sentiment embodied in the laws of money, and no matter how great may be the volume of the currency, if each and every dollar of that currency is not of value to pass current in the world of business it cannot add to the blessings of the people. To be productive of gold, silver, or paper, in the very order of things, be of unquestioned and unvarying value, and when called into requisition discharge, without the aid of legal tender acts, at home or abroad, the obligations of the holders."

TO BATTLE FOR HIGH OFFICE.

Gubernatorial Candidates in New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

George W. Peck, whom the Democrats have placed in nomination for a third term as governor of Wisconsin, is best known all over the United States as the creator, alder and abettor of "Peck's Bad Boy." Governor Peck was born in Henderson, Jefferson county, N. Y., 54 years ago and was taken to Wisconsin when an infant. He received a common school education, learned the printer's trade and followed it until 1863, when he enlisted in the Fourth regiment, Wisconsin cavalry. He was commissioned second lieutenant the following year and remained with his regiment until the war closed. He published a paper in Ripon, Wis., for two years, then established Peck's Sun, with the Bad Boy as a star feature. He was city treasurer of Ripon in 1867, chief of police of La Crosse in 1873, mayor of Milwaukee in 1880 and governor of the state the same year. He is now serving his second term as governor.

General George L. Becker, Democratic candidate for governor of Minnesota, is another native of New York state. He

GEORGE W. PECK. GEORGE L. BECKER.

CHARLES A. BUSIEL. HENRY O. KENT. was born in Locke, Cayuga county, 65 years ago and was educated at Moravia academy, Western Reserve college and Michigan university. In 1849 he began the practice of law in St. Paul. In 1856 he was elected mayor of St. Paul and the following year was one of three congressmen who were to be seated when Minnesota became a state. When it developed that the state was only entitled to two, the trio drew lots to see who should remain, and Becker got the unlucky number. In 1859 he ran for governor, but was beaten. Five years later he was elected president of the St. Paul and Pacific railroad. He has been a member of the state legislature a number of terms and for many years has been a state railroad and warehouse commissioner.

The New Hampshire gubernatorial struggle this year is between Colonel Henry O. Kent, Democrat, and Charles A. Busiel, Republican. Colonel Kent is about 55 years of age. He was colonel of the Seventeenth New Hampshire volunteers and was naval officer in Boston during President Cleveland's first term. He has been many times a member of the state legislature and is now a banker in Lancaster.

Charles A. Busiel is a prominent hosiery manufacturer and railroad magnate. He is 53 years old and a native of Meredith village, N. H. Prior to 1892 he was a Democrat, but the Democratic tariff plank caused him to ally himself with the Republicans. He was the first mayor of the city of Laconia, has made a fortune in the hosiery manufacturing business and is prominently identified with the management of half a dozen railroads.

THE POSTAL CLERKS.

How They Have Bettered Their Condition by Means of a National Association.

At a recent banquet given in London in his honor ex-Postmaster General Thomas L. James declared that the United States postoffice had been the training school of the best Americans, including such great men as Franklin and Lincoln. It had developed public men because in the eyes of the great mass of American people it was the only evidence of the federal government's existence. Taking this view of the great department suggests that possibly there is a promising future in store for Benjamin Parkhurst of Washington, who was for the third time elected president of the National Postoffice Clerks' association at its recent convention in Boston.

In September, 1883, the clerks in the Boston postoffice concluded that the hours of a postal clerk should be shorter, and that in some instances his pay should be increased. They well knew that individnal petitions to congress would be useless, and that the only way in which postoffice employees could secure needed reforms was by concerted action. The Boston Postoffice Clerks' association was organized with this end in view, and J. J. Prendergast was the first president.

Nothing of great moment was accomplished, and in February, 1890, a national association was formed in Washington. The association promptly framed three bills for the relief of postal clerks all over the country. One bill asked for an eight hour day, another demanded increased compensation, and the third provided for an annual vacation of 15 days, with pay. Of the three, congress has passed the vacation bill, and other legislation in the interests of the postoffice employees has also been secured.

The next national convention was held in Pittsburg in 1891, the third in St. Louis, the fourth in Chicago and the fifth in Boston. When congress meets in December, the association will continue pushing its other bills extending the classified service and increasing the pay of certain clerks.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.
LACES IN EXTRAORDINARY PROFUSION AND VARIETY.
Used to Embellish Feminine Garments of All Sorts—They Were Never So Popular and Beautiful Within the Memory of Mate Leroy.
(Copyright, 1894, by American Press Association.)
A dress to be perfect needs a certain amount of ornamentation, and, while heretofore each different material has required a style of garniture by itself, lace, like death, now has all for its own. There has never been a time within my recollection when lace has been used as trimming on so many and such widely different materials as now nor presented in such an infinite variety. The better part of today has been spent in looking at new laces. Just imagine! Perhaps there were 100 counters, and on every one was a different variety of lace, with more yet to arrive.
I hope I shall not become hopelessly entangled in the many different meshes that have teased my beauty loving eyes today. First let me tell of the new dancing dresses. How beautiful they are no fountain pen flowing with black ink can tell, but I will do my best. First comes what is not exactly lace, but is material for dancing dresses. It is of silk tissue, fine as the mist on a mountain, with stripes of the same color, like sunbeams struggling through. Sometimes these stripes are plain, and sometimes they are broadened at intervals of two inches with the thickest but most exquisitely woven flowers, all in the same color. These tissues are seen in blue, the lovely color of the cornflower, mauve, and, in fact, all the new tints of this season, particularly the golden, buttercup, butter and maize, and each appears prettier than the last.

Then come the nets and tulle, sewed with spangles, jewels and pearls. One had little pendants about an inch long of pearl beads and silver spangles. Another had emerald spangles; others fire color and ruby, sapphires and other jewels. They all have spangles as well as jewels, but they are so delicately made that they do not look heavy even on the tulle. These spangled and beaded laces are 27 inches wide and will cost quite high, but their wonderful beauty and fairylike lightness will make them eagerly sought by all who can possibly afford them. The present style of dressmaking is admirably well adapted for these beautiful gowns.

Next to these come the beaded laces. These are in black, done on fine net, and with very small but brilliant jet beads, and they nearly all have quite sharply pointed scallops at the bottom and an artistically designed pattern. To match these there is a great variety of insertions, wide and narrow. These will be laid flat on colored goods, but when on black a ribbon of some chosen color will be laid under them to show up the pattern. The beaded laces come in all widths for ruffles and flouncings, and they are well adapted to the figured silks presented this season.
For heavier wear the black guipure is shown in dozens of widths and patterns. This lace is of silk, firmly woven, and is richer than any black lace presented in any generation, not excepting bourdon and Spanish. It wears better than either of those two kinds. It is as individual as venetian point and quite as rich, though guipure is black and the other white. Black chintilly in the lightest and most feathery patterns ever seen is shown and will be largely used on grosgrain silks. The bourdons are better for woolsens, such as silk wools and eudoras, also fayettes, and the guipures can be put on all kinds of silk and silk warp wools. There are white chintillys in the same patterns as the black, and they are the most delicate laces I have ever seen, and it is a marvel to me how human fingers ever wore them. These will be used on fine millinery, for ties and for garnishing light evening silks and other gowns where light and ethereal effects are sought for.

The newest in white trimming laces is in a kind of point de venise in cream, pure white and butter color. They consist of very deep vandykes, some of them 80 inches deep. This lace is arranged so that each yard contains a certain number of points graduated in height. These are to be set around the front of the skirts, the points upward. There is always a narrower lace to match this in pattern for waist trimming and often an insertion carrying out the same general design. Vandyke points will be all the rage this winter and fall. Still the point de venise is wrought into corsets and yokes and plate bands of many designs. Where a contrast is necessary a band of silk or ribbon is placed beneath the lace and gleams richly through its meshes, throwing it up into cameo-like relief.

I took note of several new lace pelerine collars just taken from the case in which they had crossed the ocean. They were of heavy point de venise, with a rich and heavy pattern, closely wrought, so that the whole was fairly stiff. In some of them, where the pattern made it possible, there were worked round eyelets in very high relief, giving the whole an indescribable richness. These collars, for they are really deep collars, are made in several styles. Some are pelerine shaped, some cardinal, others square or vandyke, and others again were deeply slashed. These come in white, cream and butter color.

There are many ways of employing this superb lace as trimming, among the most effective being figaro jackets simulated upon the cloth, corsets, simulated Etons and yokes. Certainly the lady who can afford one of the pelerine collars will have one. They will be quite expensive, but the buyer must remember that point de venise has not been out of fashion since the days of the old doges of Venice, and like all such qualities of handwork it is always elegant and is treasured by those who possess it. Point de venise is made by sewing narrow linen tape into the pattern designed with wonderfully complicated stitches, so that it is one mass of threads in intricate interlacing. It must be slow and tedious work and one requiring much skill, but the result is worth the labor. The long points on the other patterns can be divided and placed on different necks or parts of the skirt.
I noticed a lot of new linen collars and chemise-collars. Some are pure white and severely plain, and others are fancy, stitched in neat colors. Some are striped in solid percale colors, a narrow stripe on a white ground. There were also some on-ely and one. There were vest fronts in white striped and buff pique, and they were very neat and pretty.
Before I mentioned the linen neckwear which will be exclusively used with tailor made costumes I had intended to mention a handsome dress which had a simulated Eton corsage of point de venise and a plaid band of the same around the bottom. The dress was of checked silk, blue and gray. The skirt trimming was set on over a marine blue ribbon. The upper part of the waist was gathered, as also was the shoulder, and the lace was sewed closely to the bodice, the color showing faintly through. Another handsome dotted taffeta dress had shoulder caps of black silk muslin, edged with point de venise. The waist was shirred and gathered and had a grille of moire, with a moire ribbon sash.
It is hard to tell which will be the best liked this season, ribbon or lace. Ribbon is omnipresent and does certainly enrich a dress. Sashes are to be worn with almost every kind of gown, shoulder knots, and, in short, everything that the fertile brain of the nineteenth century modiste can invent, and that is saying much.
I saw a very pleasing dress of striped moire, drab and dark green. There was a made sash of rich armure silk of the shade of the stripes, with a dull gold buckle, and, by the way, buckles will be in good demand and much worn. The waist fitted snugly and was ornamented with a point de venise yoke and looped bows of dark green grosgrain ribbon.
A handsome tailor gown was made of gray deep twilled serge, made plain and severe as to skirt and sleeves. The waist, however, was of silver gray moire as to the upper portion and the ample revers. There was a crushed collar of that material and a wrinkled belt. Altogether this as well as the last mentioned gown was a model. Both were faced up on the inside with bias velutina, which has proved to be the one and only indestructible facing and binding for skirts.
I saw today also some of the latest importations of velutina. These show a closer, richer and shorter pile than ever before.

NEW HAT WITH PLUME.
fore in the plain. Following the demand for reps, there are novelties in wide ribbed velutina in all the season's newest colors and tints, the most of them superb when brought out in these beautiful goods, which will be very popular for swell functions where so rich a fabric can be worn with propriety. I saw two "cute" skating dresses, almost finished, for two sisters who will doff their mourning this winter. One is of nickel gray wide ribbed velutina, bordered on the skirt with zibeline. There is a pilot coat of the same material reaching but little below the waist, with fur all around it and with two natty little pockets. The other is of navy blue and trimmed and made in nearly the same style, but with American lynx fur. Cunning little hoods, fur trimmed also, will be made.

I must not forget to mention the sudden outbreak of black ostrich plumes. I counted eight good sized ones on one hat today, and if there were no more on it it was because there was no room. The hat itself was of butter colored straw, with a sort of overcurve of fine stiff cord of the same color, making it look like the yellow growth in swampy places. The brim was wide and bent into several waves. In these and under the brim were pink roses, and overtopping everything were masses of plumes. One was curled under the brim on the left side. Another rough but fine straw had no trimming, but bunches of plumes, some upstanding and others drooping. One had feathers and velvet ribbon bows. Feathers have arrived very suddenly and I think rather unexpectedly. There was a pretty gray felt hat with slightly bent brim, a pink rose under the brim and a large bunch of plumes on the top. There are more shapes than I can mention, but nothing in hats goes without plumes and lots of them—white, black, colored and natural.

Very likely many ladies who read this may have old ostrich plumes laid aside from which all the fluffiness and curl have departed. If such ladies will follow these directions, they can make those bedraggled feathers as pretty as if just bought: To curl them anew put a teakettle on the stove, and when the water boils well hold the feather in the steam until every flue is moist and pliable. Then take a knife, not too sharp nor yet too dull, and with that curl up each flue separately, just as you would draw a strip of paper through your fingers to curl it against the knife edge. When all have been curled, lay the feather in the sun, and you will be surprised to see how fluffy and rich it will appear.

MATE LEROY.
In Ancient Costumes.
At a recent ball in Sheffield, England, a successful attempt was made to revive the costumes of the olden time. There were some 500 men present, and they were all dressed in knee breeches and silken hose and wore powdered wigs, while all the women present wore white wigs.

NOT FIGHT AT SEA.
Ab Sin and the Japanese Have a Naval Engagement.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 19.—A naval engagement has taken place off Yalu, where a Chinese squadron was covering the landing of a large force. The landing was effected with success, but in the meantime a Japanese fleet attacked the assailants. In the fighting that followed the Chinese warship Chih Yuen was sunk by the fire from the attacking fleet. The Yang Wei, also belonging to the Chinese squadron, in attempting to get out of the range of fire, or in manoeuvring for a position, was run aground, where she remained. One other Chinese ship is reported to have been sunk.
Three Japanese Vessels Also Sunk.
The Japanese are also reported to have sustained a heavy loss, three of their vessels having been sunk by the fire from the Chinese. Admiral Ting and Major Hanuiku, are reported having been killed during the attack. No estimates are made of the losses of life by either side. The latest reports of the number of Chinese killed during the battle at Pingyang places the total at 6,000.

Degradation of Li Hung Chang.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Information of the official degradation of Viceroy Li Hung Chang came to the state department in a dispatch from Charles Denby, Jr., the United States charge d'affaires in Peking. It was to the effect that the emperor of China had deprived the viceroy of two of his peacock feathers for his failure to properly conduct the military operations, and stated further that he would probably be subjected to still greater punishment.

Chinese Admit and Deny.
LONDON, Sept. 19.—A special dispatch to The Times from Shanghai says that the Chinese admit the truth of the reports of the defeat of their army at Pingyang, but deny that towns were captured by the Japanese.
WHISKY TRUST CONDEMNED.
Judge Gibbons at Chicago Says It Has No Right of Existence.
CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Ever since May 19, 1893, a fight has been going on in the courts here against the whisky trust, the fight having been inaugurated by Attorney General Moloney. The case has at last come to a head and Judge Gibbons has rendered a decision that disposes of it in the lower courts. The trust fought the case step by step, but all its pleas were overruled or otherwise rejected by the different courts.
The final decision declares that the concern is a trust, it matters not what name it goes by, or how it came into possession of the property it controls; it does control eighty-one distilleries and is undoubtedly a trust that ought not to be tolerated. The judge said in the course of his decision: "Corporations may flourish and expand, but competition and individualism must neither be thwarted nor crushed."

Russian Thistle Is a Terror.
DENVER, Sept. 18.—The Russian thistle has made such inroads upon farming lands in the eastern part of Colorado that it has begun to attract serious attention. The pest made its appearance in Colorado at a comparatively recent date, but has spread in an astonishing manner. Two years ago a bunch of it five feet in diameter appeared in Fremont county, and from that small patch it has spread until it extends over a territory ten miles square.
Grand Army Reception at Chicago.
CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Colonel Thomas G. Lawler, of Rockford, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Mrs. Emma R. Wallace, of Chicago, president of the national division of the Woman's Relief Corps, will be given a reception in Chicago Oct. 3. Representatives of the various Woman's Relief Corps have made preliminary arrangements.
Nominations for Congress.
The following nominations have been made in congressional districts: Third Minnesota district, J. P. Hewit (Rep.); First Nebraska, Mayer Weil, of Lincoln (Dem.); Third Alabama, W. C. Robinson (Populist); New Mexico, T. B. Catron (Rep.); First Michigan, John B. Corlies.

Fatally Stabbed in a Fight.

One of the best campaign documents sent out by the Democratic Campaign Committee is a list of the new enterprises inaugurated and of old ones which have resumed work since the new tariff became a law. It answers better than pages of argument could possibly do the republican charge that tariff reform would injure American industries.

The New York republican platform offers something in the nature of a substitute for a frank disavowal of A. P. Aism. It indorses the constitution of that state, which guarantees "the free exercise and enjoyment of religious profession and worship."

This is a gauzy A. P. A. subterfuge and device. Any A. P. A. will agree to that. But fairminded people want a platform that denounces political proserption—a denial of the right to vote and hold office for conscience sake—and that will not be found in any republican platform dictated by the A. P. A.'s.—Ex.

The Stevens Point Journal must be hard up for arguments when it states that Lyman E. Barnes "stood by the sugar trust from start to finish," because there is not a scintilla of truth for such statement. He voted for the increased tax on whiskey, as did nearly all the Democratic members of the House, and for the free sugar bill that is now pending in the Senate. That last bill was a direct test on the question, and every Republican member of the House except Congressman Haugen voted against it, while every Republican Senator voted against considering the bill before the next session. The Journal knows these facts: why not state them?—Appleton Crescent.

A cable dispatch from Berlin says that a St. Petersburg newspaper publishes an article alleging that 2,000,000 Poles in Russia and America have offered to furnish 40,000 men, armed, equipped and drilled, to aid a new Polish insurrection. Chicago is said to be an active center of the conspiracy. "The czar is assured with confidence that if he does not have a Polish insurrection on his hands until it is started by the Polish citizens of Chicago he will spend the rest of his days, and die, in peace." The Polish-Americans of this country are generally good democrats and consider that their duty as patriots is performed in doing their best to promote good government in this country. They sympathize, of course, with the people of their blood who are the victims of despotism, but they will not go to war about it.

HORACE TAYLOR, of Madison, made a speech at a gathering of Republicans in Milwaukee, last week, in which he made several statements that sound good from his standpoint, but are entirely devoid of truth or reason. In this connection the Milwaukee Journal says that there is one sentence in the speech of Mr. Taylor that amply condemns him by its absolute falsity. He says: "If they (the Democrats) were disposed to be honest they would compare the taxes of the last four years of Democratic rule with the last four years of Republican rule." That is exactly what the Democrats, starting with The Journal, have done, and it is what Mr. Taylor has not done. Instead of doing what he says would be honest, he tries something else in making his comparison, and for the simple reason that by the honest method he could never accomplish his purpose. To prove that he is not honest in his position it is only necessary to reprint the only comparison of state taxes that has been found in the Democratic press, and which, originating in this paper, is also found in the Democratic campaign book from which Mr. Taylor professed to draw the Democratic statement. This comparison is as follows:

1888 1,065,541.95 1892 1,078,720.01
1889 873,887.79 1893 1,078,720.01
1890 891,640.12 1894 2,000,000.00

Total $3,718,171.15 $2,066,321.15
Difference in favor of Democrats $1,651,850.00

The late Mr. Taylor has no reasonable excuse for arising now with his alleged statistics, but possibly he fears that the party may suspect him of disloyalty if he should tell nothing but the truth.

America Leads the World

The Crowning Glory of the Age.

Man's enterprise culminated at the World's Columbian Exposition. The memory of it will be a marvel for all time. The fame there acquired will live for years. The manufacturers of appreciate the award to them of highest honors at the Exposition. The significance of the compliment, the splendid character of the indorsement, cannot be underrated. It stamps Dr. Price's as without a peer among the baking powders. The jury of awards, an exceptionally intelligent body, was headed by the Chief Chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture. They found Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder strongest in leavening power, perfect in purity, and of uniform excellence.
